THE GOOD MAN FROM SARATOV

"They came here but they haven't any work. They seek consolation in schnapps. More than half the people in the village are alcoholics. Both men and women. And I ask myself how the children and young people can bear it. This is a life without a future. Sometimes I think that the only solution would be - and I am saying this after eight years of work with these people - the only solution would be to evacuate this village and move it nearer to civilisation." Bishop Clemens Pickel is the youngest Bishop in Russia and at his ordination 12 years ago at age 36, was one of the youngest Bishop's in the Catholic Church. Today, Bishop Clemens Pickel lives in the Volga city of Saratov, located in the St. Clemens diocese, a diocese that four times the size of Germany.

James Bigham shows the model of a transport ship he built over 53 years to Warren Granger (white cap seated), Allan Kimmell (black cap), and (behind him left to right), Frank Galbraith, Ike Appelhanz and Don Gleason. The six former sailors, who were in the Naval Armed Guard assigned to protect transport ships in World War II, meet once a month.

U.S. NAVY ARMED GUARD IN TOPEKA

Ike Appelhanz, 84, retired microbiologist, Colmery-O'Neil VA, 32 years
Don Gleason, 85, retired battalion chief, Topeka Fire Department , 32 years
Warren E. Granger, 86, retired from the Santa Fe Shops after 38 years
Frank Galbraith, 90, retired vice president Capitol Federal Savings, 33 years
Allan Kimmell, 84, retired veterinarian, Kansas livestock commissioner, 5 years
James Bigham, 86, retired.

World War II Navy veteran Warren E. Granger recalls that serving in the U.S. Naval Armed Guard, the sailors who manned gun crews to protect civilian transport ships from enemy attackers, was "good duty."

Members volunteered or were assigned to the Armed Guard, which defended 6,236 American and Allied ships. Unlike warships, the transport ships weren't equipped with sonar to detect enemy submarines or radar to find aircraft, said Ike Appelhanz, a gunner. Transports relied on the eyes of the Armed Guard crews, who were on duty for manning their guns constantly during combat and at sunrise and sunset, the most likely times for attack.

Frank Galbraith was a 2nd class signalman when a relentless wolf pack of German U-boats hacked away at the convoy. In four days, German U-boats torpedoed 12 Allied ships, including a troop ship in a convoy of 143 ships, Galbraith said. "It was pretty scary," starting on Feb. 4, 1943, three ships were sunk the first night, six on the third night and three were lost on the fourth. Some men died within minutes when they jumped overboard into the frigid water of the North Atlantic.

Enemy subs and planes weren't the only dangers. Gleason was aboard a ship steaming on the edge of a typhoon in the South Pacific. "We got to survive the storm," the first mate told the quartermaster. Some cargo ships were prone to breaking up in heavy seas, the men said.

Of the 144,970 sailors and officers in the Armed Guard, 1,683 to 2,085 were killed, based on different sources; 1,127 were wounded; 127 were missing; and 27 were prisoners of war. STEVE FRY CAPITAL JOURNAL, DECEMBER 7, 2009

NORINE STAAB, CHAPTER MEMBER, RETIRES

The County Commission said happy retirement to Norine Staab after 39 years with the elections office. Staab was presented a plaque by commissioners at the beginning of the meeting.

County election commissioner Elizabeth Ensley said Staab began with the office in 1970, meaning she has dealt with elections here for 45 percent of the time since women were given the right to vote. She said Staab will be greatly missed. She had asked Staab to be a poll worker on election days, but Staab had given her a firm "no." "I plan to sleep in on those mornings." Staab's last day of work was Dec. 18, 2009.

LUTHERAN PARISH REGISTERS 1820- 1923 MAY BE TRANSLATED

Bill Pickelhaupt, of THE Volga German List announced on JAN 13, 2010, "While in Salt Lake City, a Samara-based extract of Lutheran Parish Registers for 1820-1923 was discovered. It was transcribed about 1926 from earlier records. About 10% of the data has been translated into English, and it shows that places of birth were all over European Russia and Western Siberia. Only births have been translated, but in many cases the date of death is also included.

My estimate is 3,500 - 4,000 names are in this database. The intention is to have all of the 600 plus pages translated and published. If anyone would like to donate to make this goal a reality, please let me know." On JAN 19, 2010 Bill announced that 1/3 of the funds needed to undertake this project had been received. He requested additional assistance to complete the project. On JAN 28, 2010 Mr. Pickelhaupt announced that if the $300 balance needed to complete this translation, is not received by the end of February, he will cancel the project. KUHLBERG LIST TO BE PUBLISHED THIS QUARTER

Patrice Miller of the Volga German List noted:

The "Kuhlberg lists" were compiled by Titular Counselor Ivan Kuhlberg as the colonists arrived in Oranienbaum. More than 20,000 persons, or 6,500 families are reflected in the Kuhlberg lists. They are compiled by ship, with an indication of the date of arrival in Russia, port of departure, the name of ship, and the name of the skipper. The name and surname of the colonists are listed, the composition of the family (age of children was indicated), location from which they came, religious confession and place where they desire to settle. AHSGR has not acquired copies of the Kuhlberg lists. Dr. Igor Pleve uses the Kuhlberg lists for the information about a family's arrival that he provides at the top of the hand drawn surname charts he provides.

A published source of a small portion of the Kuhlberg list is found in: The German Colonies on the Volga: The Second Half of the 18th Century, by Igor Pleve, translated by Richard Rye. Published by AHSGR. The names in this list would probably be found in villages established in 1767 since it generally took one year for the settlers to travel from Oranienbaum to the Volga. For sale in the AHSGR store.

Pleve mentioned in addendum that he will publish at a future date a complete list of all 20,000 colonists arriving in Oranienbaum in compiled by Kuhlberg."

(THIS IS WHERE THE NEW ANNOUNCEMENT FOLLOWS)

The Kuhlberg Lists are in fact now at the publishers and will be available this year. It will include the 20,000+ colonists and whatever ship/commander arrival information known by Pleve.

[Posted Nov. 15, 2009]

Information from I. R. Pleve:

The Kuhlberg lists should be published in the first quarter of 2010. As soon as the book formatting is completed, I will, of course, announce a more precise publication date and the price.

GENETIC GENEALOGY of GERMANS from RUSSIA

I wish to thank Dr. Tim Janzen for his leadership and expertise in the advancement of genealogy in large ethnic populations. Dr. Janzen is a co-administrator of the Mennonite DNA project. He writes and speaks on the DNA topic periodically. Dr. Janzen collected about 100 DNA samples from people at the GRHS/AHSGR convention in Wyoming. Those samples were being processed for free by the Sorenson Molecular Genealogy Foundation (SMGF). Most of the Mennonites who participated in the DNA project were doing so through the SMGF since testing was free at that time.

In 2009 I tried to replicate this Sorenson collection process with 144 patriarchs of the Volga German population who migrated to Rush and Ellis County, Kansas in the 1875 to 1880 period. Unfortunately, with the downturn in the economy, SMGF advised us that they would no longer be able to provide the free testing on large projects as they had in the past, but they would be willing to work with us if we paid for the analysis of individual participants, through an associate company. However the cost per participant approaching $300, was too prohibitive for us to pursue this project.

Some individuals, myself included have since personally contributed our Y DNA records and sent renewed specimens to SMGF as was then required by SMGF. But this was an individual effort, I believe even more limited, and not a systematic broad ethnic population search effort, as is the Mennonite DNA project.

As to technique, much of the previous DNA genealogy testing had been "linear," from male Y DNA testing.

Dr. Janzen notes a major shift in the field.

" The landscape in the DNA field has now changed with the introduction of 23andMe's Relative Finder feature 2 months ago. (Nov. 2009)

I am now recommending that people consider the 23andMe test for the purposes of ancestral testing because it looks at a large number of autosomal DNA SNPs.

The genetic relationships are obvious back to about the 3rd to 4th cousin level of relationship. This test can detect genealogical relationships back as far as 8-10 generations. "

While I have little knowledge in this recent development, it appears that the testing moves from the traditional singular "linear" DNA testing of male Y DNA, towards a multidimensional analysis of a particular individual's DNA connections.
